Welcome and Introductions – Molly Holmes
The City of Seattle recently passed an initiative making Seattle an Age Friendly Community with Seattle’s Mayor Murray’s full commitment. A stakeholder group meets regularly to implement the plan. AARP is available to provide technical assistance.

The initiative, built on local efforts, began eight years ago by Sound Generations during their “Aging Your Way” process. An intergenerational group of community members created a vision of an age friendly community which built on the talents and skills of community members. Their guiding principles included a multi-cultural approach, eliminating silos, creating connectedness, incorporating technology and sustainability.

The World Health Organization’s Age Friendly framework, supported by AARP, includes eight domains and a continuous improvement process using an integrated, cooperative approach:

Domain 1: Outdoor Spaces and Buildings—safe and accessible places to gather, indoors and out.
Domain 2: Housing—accessible and affordable, for all life stages.
Domain 3: Transportation—travel options that safely support multiple modes.
Domain 4: Social Participation—social and recreation options for all age groups and incomes.
Domain 5: Respect and Social Inclusion—all generations are respected members of the community.
Domain 6: Civic Participation and Employment—meaningful paid or volunteer work is offered to older adults and economic security is within reach.
Domain 7: Communication and Information—resources, benefits, and services are accessible to the older adults who may need them.
Domain 8: Community Support and Health Services—healthy aging is encouraged through programs and support.

Why is the Age Friendly community designation important?
By 2040, 25% of the population will be over the age of 60. As the aging population continues to grow. The Age-Friendly framework provides a template for regional leaders to create communities that are great places to grow up and grow old. It will raise the visibility of the aging population, encourage coordination across sectors, identify gaps and improve opportunities to collaborate and learn from each other. While there will be challenges in developing infrastructure including transportation, housing, health and long term care. There are opportunities for:

- Entrepreneurship which is rising fastest among individuals age 55+.
- Economic growth of $7 trillion generated by people 50+.
- Happiness – People over 60 report their happiness grows as they age.

The Age Friendly Initiative calls for a 5-year planning and implementation cycle to continuously improve through frequent assessment, feedback from stakeholders and data.
What ideas has the Age Friendly task force heard so far?

- Grandparent parks
- Multi-generational housing
- Neighborhood hubs
- Longer crosswalk signals
- Microphones at meetings
- Job-share opportunities
- Employer training on ageism
- Cooperative models for housing, transportation, and other programs

What is the role for advocates?

- Learn more
- Talk with others
- Engage partners
- Uncover gaps

Encore.org

Jim McGinley, reported Encore.org is building a movement to tap into the skills and experience of people in midlife and beyond to improve their local communities and the world. They are spearheading an effort to engage millions of people in later life to create a better future. The organization is beginning a new campaign called Generation to Generation to mobilize over a million people over 50 years of age to support innovative projects to bring generations together to make life better for all. Nutrition RFP

Angela Miyamoto, ADS staff described the upcoming Nutrition RFP process. ADS invests:

- $2.6 million in community dining programs which serve 13,276 clients, and provides 379,950 meals.
- $1.19 million in the home delivered meals programs which serves 2,779 clients, and provides 503,297 meals.

Angela is gathering community feedback about service gaps and will explore new creative approaches to provide meals throughout King County. Advisory Council members expressed concern about the lack of capacity in rural areas where directors scramble to serve an influx of new participants every day and senior centers struggle to make ends meet financially as the population of seniors grows. Angela encouraged Advisory Council members to email Gigi feedback.

Jon also reported he plans to work on three projects:

1. Updating the information and data originally published in the Quiet Crisis.
2. Housing Plus services an effort to improve services in conjunction with housing.
3. In collaboration with Metro, and Sound Generations, Jon wrote a successful grant to continue the much needed Hyde Shuttle Service.

- Federal Budget: ADS receives funding from several federal funding sources including the Older Americans Act, could be at risk. Other funds connected to the Affordable Care Act including the 1115 waiver and the funding for Health Homes are also at risk. It’s important to continue to monitor these fund sources.

- The governor’s budget will be released in late December. DSHS asked for a rate increase for AAA case management and Adult Family Homes.
