“Becoming a Citizen Activist,” by former Seattle City Councilmember Nick Licata, is a self-help book for citizens wanting to change the political world around them.

Nick became a city councilmember in an election where he was opposed by the majority of the sitting council, the mayor, and both daily newspapers, and was significantly outspent by his opponent. He was elected to five terms, and served as Council president.

Learn how political change occurs and how to work with others to make those needed changes.

The mission of the Seattle-King County Advisory Council for Aging & Disability Services is to identify the needs of older people and adults with disabilities in our community; advise on services to meet these needs; and advocate for local, state and national programs that promote quality of life for these populations. www.agingkingcounty.org/advisory-council
